2DIN Iban Longhouse Safari

DURATION : OVERNIGHT

Min. 2 to go
RM 1380 / pax

Rate Includes : Transportation, Guided Tour, Boat Fee, Longhouse Expenses, Accommodation, 4 Meals (B/2L/D), & 1 Bottle of Drinking water

DAY 1

Start your Iban longhouse safari adventure with a hotel pick-up. The 4-hour drive will take you through scenic greenery and countryside views of rolling terrains dotted with vegetable farms and padi fields. You will also pass by Sarawak's thriving cash crop plantations such as rubber, pepper, oil palm and cocoa.

We will make a brief stop at Serian, a native town, to experience the bustling daily wet market. Here, the locals showcase rare jungle produce on vibrant mats and canvases to attract buyers. Then, enjoy lunch at Lachau, a quaint and well-known "cowboy" town where tribal natives from Indonesia's neighbouring Kalimantan border town gather to barter trade and sell produce. Here, you can also get a last-minute gift for your Iban host.

The road trip ends at the riverbank, marking the beginning of your longboat ride upstream, with the journey duration varying depending on the water level and your longhouse destination.

The longboat is piloted by one boatman, with a one navigator in front of the hull. The navigator guides and steers the boat using hand signals to the boatman, to avoid hidden tree stumps or logs along the route. In dry seasons, prepare to walk along the riverbank and through the jungle, while the boatman transports the engines. Once the water deepens, another longboat will await us. Upon arrival, mingle with the longhouse community and embrace communal living. Learn their hunting techniques, bamboo cooking practices, and their deep connection to the forest for everything, from food to medicine. Indulge in local delicacies such as the famous "tuak", a locally brewed rice wine, and take part in the "ngajat", a traditional warrior dance. Spend the night at the guesthouse.

DAY 2

After breakfast, join in an engaging demonstration of "cock fighting" and blowpipe traditions. You can also embark on a guided jungle trek, gaining insights into the plants and animals significant to the local culture and way of life.

Depart from the longhouse around mid-morning then proceed overland towards Kuching, stopping for a fulfilling lunch at Lachau town.
